6,000 ACRES OF LAND CHANGED HANDS TODAY.

Chicago Syndicate Buys Several Tracts North of Ormond.

A deal involving sixteen thousand acres of the finest pine and hammock land in the State of Florida, with a consideration running high into millions, was closed this morning by the Conrad-Oates Realty, Title & Insurance Co., when they sold to a wealthy Chicago Syndicate the great Harwood tract of land on the Santa Fe River and about twelve thousand acres adjoining it on the west and south, touching the railroad at Harwood Station.

This tract includes several of the old famous sugar plantations, cultivated by the Spanish and English settlers almost one hundred years ago, and upon these lands still stand the sugar mills built by them to work up the cane grown upon the fertile fields. On one of these old mills has been carved over the date of 1832.

It is the intention of the purchasers of this land to bring actual settlement down and to bring the land back to its former state of cultivation. These gentlemen are very enthusiastic over the proposition and state that, in their opinion, Florida, and Volusia County especially, is only just beginning to open up, and that a wonderful future is before this section.

The last deal makes a total of about 60,000 acres sold by the Conrad-Oates Realty, Title & Insurance company during the last ten months, and a sale of this kind where northern capital and northern settlers are interested do more to give Volusia County publicity and impetus toward growth than almost any other thing that could happen.

FAKIRS' CARNIVAL WAS A HOWLING SUCCESS.

ABOUT $500 REALIZED FOR CITY ISLAND PARK BENEFIT FUND.

The ladies of the Palmetto Club made a grand success of their Fake Carnival for the benefit of the City Island Friday afternoon and evening. Large crowds were in attendance in the afternoon and the Armory was packed during the evening.

There was every form of funny take-off that the fertile imagination of the committee ladies could devise. Starting around the circle at the left of the entrance you could cast your line into an imaginary pond from which you extracted almost anything except Pond's Extract for the reasonable sum of five cents. This was the cheapest exercise of the evening, and was largely indulged in by the boys and the less peccunious. Next came the goose exhibit, and the animals squawked around calling attention to her attraction. Then came the table of fancy articles, which was pretty well sold out during the afternoon. Next the Dog Show, which was no fake, but about as attractive an exhibit of a variety in fine bred dogs as you would find in a regular dog show in a Western City. Many of the tourists had loaned their household pets for the occasion. The palm reading and fortune-telling came in for a large patronage, although it was placed at the high price of twenty-five cents, but seers are not wont to give away their knowledge. The Beauty Show and Freak Show were also very popular.

The orchestra was much enjoyed. The decorations were artistic and appropriate to the different booths and side shows.

The Lord Faunteroy dance by Mrs. Livingston Jacques, of New York City, a guest of The Ridgewood, deserves special mention as one of the most entertaining features of the evening. The dance was executed with inimitable grace and animation, and was repeated in response to a hearty encore.

The prize for the Beauty Show was won by Frank W. Pope, Jr., though all the candidates received complimentary votes.

The prize at the Dog Show was won by Miss Rist's dog, Rowdy, a Boston Bull, which was entered as No. 23 and received 2630 votes. Jappe, Miss Helen Blodgett's dog, received the second highest number of votes, 2287.

The Candy Table realized $100 and the Dog Show $77. The committee having general supervision of the carnival was, Mrs. Graham Thompson, Mrs. G. B. Seaman, Mrs. J. C. Downing and Mrs. M. Huston, but the entire club membership or as near as may be, contributed generously of their time and talent to the success of the occasion. The door receipts amounted to about $500.00.

The ladies of the committee wish to thank W. G. Williamson for his handsome donation of beautiful pansies, which came from the Big Tree, also those who donated their autos for the afternoon, and, in fact, everybody who assisted in any way.

SEABREEZE SEWING CIRCLE WILL HOLD BAZAAR.

The ladies of the Seabreeze Sewing Circle will hold their annual sale of useful and fancy articles, home made candies etc., Wednesday, March second, from 2:00 to 6:00 p. m. at the Reading Room, on Oakridge avenue one street south of the Hotel Colonnades site.

The proceeds are to be used for the public library and Congregational Church. Ice cream, cake, coffee and sandwiches will be served on the

RUSSIA LOOKING WITH SUSPICION ON CHINA.

OPENS NEGOTIATIONS TODAY FOR JOINT NOTE WITH ENGLAND TO CELESTIAL EMPIRE.

LONDON, Feb. 26—Russia today opened negotiations looking to a joint note to China regarding her activities in Tibet.

Both Russia and England fear that the Chinese expansion into Tibet is the forerunner of encroachment by China upon the India-Russian frontier.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shinn, of Chattanooga, Tenn., arrived Wednesday to spend the balance of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Shinn have many friends in Daytona, having spent several seasons here in the past. They have been at St. Petersburg, however, this winter for a couple of months previous to coming here.

MAN OF SIXTY YEARS DOES WALKING STUNT.

Byron Stewart, of Oswego, N. Y., who is spending the season here in company with a party of his townpeople, is a pedestrian of no mean ability.

Although Mr. Stewart owns and has with him a Buick car, he evidently enjoys the more active exercise of walking and does not hesitate to tackle jaunts the mere thought of which would tire many a younger man.

Mr. Stewart, who is a well preserved man of sixty, was taking a dip in the surf Thursday afternoon, when the idea of walking to Ponce Park seized him, and donning his regular attire he started out at about two o'clock.

He says he had a fine tramp to the inlet, but did not cross to Ponce Park, as he did not know which road to take and it was growing late, so he turned about and retraced his steps, reaching home at about eight o'clock.

Coming back, he had to face a north wind, and the incoming tide forced him into the soft sand and made walking difficult, while the moon, on which he had counted for light did not make its appearance until too late to aid him.

Mr. Stewart's little stroll covered between twenty-five and thirty miles yet he was as chipper as a boy of twenty next day.

PHILADELPHIA NEWSPAPER HEAR FROM "BLACK HAND."

SAY THAT AT A GIVEN SIGNAL TODAY THE STATE POLICE WILL BE ANNIHILATED.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26—Several newspapers received this morning "black hand" letters signed by "Committee of Sixty" saying that at a given signal today the State police would be annihilated.

No credence is placed in them but all guards have been strengthened.

The eighth day of the strike opened with the people confident that no more rioting will occur. Several small outbreaks took place last night but they were easily quelled.

President Murphy, of the Central Labor Union, was arrested early this morning for utterances inciting a riot.

ALICE IN WONDERLAND AT-OPERA HOUSE TONIGHT.

The spectacular extravaganza, Alice in Wonderland, will be presented at the Daytona Opera House tonight.

The cast, which includes over fifty, is made up entirely of home talent, with the addition of some thirty or forty school children. The speaking parts will be taken by the members of the Daytona Dramatic Organization of Amateurs.

All know the fascination of the story of Alice in Wonderland and the catchy music and choruses by the children's voices and the effective costuming make a brilliant spectacle. Don't fail to see it.

BETHLEHEM STRIKER SHOT BY POLICEMAN.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Feb. 26—A small detachment of State police arrived today for duty in the vicinity of the Bethlehem Steel Company's plant, where fights are occurring between strikers and workers.

Feeling is very bitter and trouble is feared. In a fight today a striker, whose name is unknown, was shot by a State policeman and may die. Many fights occurred today.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Stubenbord, Jr., who have been in Jacksonville since the middle of December, returned last night and joined Mr. Stubenbord's parents and other members of the family on North Ridgewood avenue. PROMINENT HOTEL MAN DIES IN THIS CITY.

Frederick R. Welz, of St. Paul, Minn., died in this city last night at about half past ten o'clock. The remains will be shipped to St. Paul tomorrow afternoon, accompanied by Mrs. Christian Fry, a daughter of the deceased.

Mr. Welz was a prominent hotel man of St. Paul, owning for many years the Merchant's Hotel and being at the time of his death a heavy stockholder in the Ryan Hotel, the largest in St. Paul.

BIG BENZ SHIPPED YESTERDAY.

EXPECTED IN DAYTONA IN A FEW DAYS—OLDFIELD WILL START FROM HOT SPRINGS NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Barney Oldfield's giant Benz racer, the fastest car in the world, is enroute to Daytona for the Speed Carnival scheduled for March 22, 23 and 24. The space annihilator was shipped over the Clyde Line from New York yesterday and will arrive in Jacksonville on Monday, when it will be transferred to the Florida East Coast Railway for Daytona.

The arrival of the Benz will be welcomed by local enthusiasts who have read so much of the wonderful speed creation and its monster engine and queer torpedo shape. The car is not a freak, but a practical car, and can be run 500 miles at as fast a gait as it can be sent a single mile. It was originally built for the seven-mile Semmering Hill climb, the annual endurance classic of Germany. The Benz cars have won the event for many years and hold the record for the course, a winding tortuous road up a mountain, having averaged eighty-seven miles an hour for the distance a few months ago.

Then Hemmery took the car to Brooklands, England, track and performed his wonderful feat of driving it at a rate of 123 miles per hour. Oldfield paid $14,000 of his earnings as a death-daring race driver for the champion speed automobile of the world.

Word comes from Hot Springs, Ark., that Oldfield is getting in rare condition for his record drives here next month. Barney began training with the great base ball players who are at the Springs and Stanley Ketchell, the middle-weight fighter, is his training partner. The two are reported as taking several hours a day exercise over the Ozark mountains.

Oldfield leaves Hot Springs ne Wednesday for Daytona and will stop off a couple of days in Jacksonville to see the ponies run.

To the Democratic Voters of Volusia County:

I am a candidate for State Senator, subject to the action of the Democratic primary.

When I entered the campaign for Representative I endeavored to make clear that I would oppose every measure coming up for consideration in the lower branch of the legislature, the tendency of which, if enacted into a law, would be a benefit to a few at the expense of the many. I endeavored to make it equally clear that I had no special interest to protect, no private axe to grind; only an ambition to truly represent my county and to merit the approval of my fellowmen.

In returning to you, firmer in my purpose for good government and stronger in my allegiance to the interest of the masses, I have the consciousness of knowing that my heart was with the people of Volusia and their interest every minute of the sixty days spent in Tallahassee.

In announcing my candidacy for State Senator I am yielding to the expressed wish of many friends, and I do so with the assurance which comes from the knowledge of services faithfully rendered and promises well kept, and I ask for your support.

Sincerely, MACON THORNTON.

A Famous Temple.

The most magnificent work of architecture in the world is the Taj Mahal, in Agra, Hindustan. It was erected by Shah Jehan to the memory of his favorite queen. It is octagonal in form, of pure white marble, inlaid with jasper, carnelian, turquoise, agate, amethyst and sapphire. The work took 22,000 men twenty years to complete, and, though there were free gifts and the labor was free, the cost is estimated at $16,000,000.—Exchange.

Evarts and the Author.

When a popular young author went to see William M. Evarts while he was secretary of state in behalf of a consularship for which he was an applicant Mr. Evarts congratulated him on the fame which he had acquired, but hastened to add, "Although you have laurels on your brows, I suppose you can't browse on your laurels."

Inquisitive.

After Sunday school:
Willie—Did you hear that boy swear, Johnny, when I told him to go away?
Johnny—No. (Quietly persuasive) Tell him to go away again and I'll listen.—Manchester Guardian.

Habits of Seals.

The habits of seals are very interesting. The very young seal is helpless in the water until he is taught by his mother to swim. She takes him into the water daily on her fin and dumps him in and when he gets tired of floundering about places him on her fin again and returns to her camp. When the young seals are well grown they suddenly disappear with their mothers and the bull seals. No one knows where they go, and their return is equally as sudden as their departure. The bulls are the first to put in an appearance at the camping ground. When they arrive they commence at once to prepare a camp for their mates, which they stake out and for which they fight until they die. In the meantime the female seals remain quite a distance from land, floating lazily on the water and seemingly having a good time.

Ant Eaters.

Ant eaters are in the curious position of being practically unable to open their mouths. It may almost be said, indeed, that they have no mouths to open. There is just a small, round orifice at the end of the snout, through which about two feet of wormlike tongue can wriggle out, and as this tongue is bathed with liquid glue instead of saliva every ant which it touches adheres to it, and the animal licks the insects up by hundreds at a time.

Human nature is so constituted that all see and judge better in the affairs of other men than in their own.—Terence.

Coyote and Jack Rabbit.

The speed of the jack rabbit has always been proverbial among western men, like the speed of a coyote. In a straightaway race it is claimed that the jack rabbit can distance the coyote, but he usually falls a victim to the coyote's superior intelligence. The favorite coyote method for catching jack rabbits is for one of the animals to start a jack and attend to the work of keeping the victim on the run, while the other coyote sits down, patiently awaiting the arrival of his dinner. The jack rabbit when he has a free range will run in circles, and the coyotes cleverly count on this habit. Before long the rabbit will arrive at the place from which he started, and there coyote No. 2, fresh and ready for a short sprint, will swoop down upon him and then divide the meal with the coyote that has done the actual chasing.—New York Press.

Hunting Truffles as Sport.

Quite apart from the interest of fungi to the naturalist the temptation cannot here be resisted to refer to a method of procuring one kind of fungus, which might take rank among the minor sports. This is the fashion, originating in France, of procuring the truffle by the aid of swine and hounds. More ill assorted sporting companions can hardly be imagined. The truffle grows underground. Pigs are particularly fond of these delicacies and, guided by the scent, will discover them by rooting in the earth. After the discovery of the truffles the dogs are employed to beat back the pigs and prevent them from devouring the spoil. And every quality dear to the sportsman of skill and judgment is needed to control and obtain the desired result from the efforts of a herd of swine and a pack of hounds.—London Outlook.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE PLODDER.

"Do not be a plodder," say the writers who tell us, how to succeed in life. I object!

It is the plodder who wins. The power of the slow, sure, patient, persistent plodder is the force that does things.

Most young men need to learn the secret of that power. They are inclined by temperament and teaching to grow tired of patient progress and to try the short cut to success.

Plodding is a habit of mind that needs to be learned.

Watch the construction of a great dam or a big stone building. A stone goes up at a time and slowly. One may scarcely note the changes from day to day. Yet constantly the work approaches to completion.

Remember how the constant dripping of the water wears away the stone.

Or how the little snowball grows.

Let such ideas sink deeply into your mind. They will finally become a part of the machinery of your thinking. Then put them into practice. Faith fully followed such an experience will be worth a thousand fleeting impulses or ten thousand resolutions.

Genius itself is only a genius for work.

To learn how to plod one must learn to love his work—the joy of doing. The pleasure is not in the completion, but in the planning and working—the planning to plod and the plodding.

And—

Do not forget the power of plodding is cumulative—that is to say, the more you plod the easier it becomes and the more it counts.

Edison, the brilliant inventor, is a plodder—no less. The successful man is always patient with routine.

Teach your boy to plod.

And point out to him that plodding is but another word for pluck.

The boy is impatient, impulsive. Plodding at his task is the only way he can steady himself. You owe it to your boy or girl to show how it may be done.

And the courage of it!

The plodder goes steadily on through bright and through cloudy weather, up and onward, though the way be narrow and full of thorns. The band does not play. The tumult and the shouting die, but the plodder plods on.

Hail to the plodder!

You cannot keep him from his goal.

EXCELLENT PRINTING

A new press has also been installed by the Daily News—a Mergenthaler Linotype is also among the new acquisitions to the plant. All this in itself may be of no particular interest to you but it helps bear out the assertion that the Daily News produces the Best Kind of Job Printing. And bear in mind the best kind costs little more than the "botchy" kind.

(Copyright, 1909, by American Press Association.)

On Christmas morning while Jimmy was trying hard to dress himself--the buttons were all too big for the holes. he said--he heard a sharp bark downstairs. Jimmy stopped at once, and his eyes and ears were wide open. At another bark, half dressed, he dashed out of his room and downstairs. There in the library he saw as pretty a little fox terrier as ever stepped on four feet. Jimmy stood looking at the terrier, and the terrier stood with his pointed nose and sharp eyes turned directly on Jimmy. Then by way of making Jimmy's acquaintance he wagged his tail. At that moment Jimmy's father came into the room and said:

"He's your Christmas present, Jim. How do you like him?"

Jim was so wrapped in admiration of his dog that he made no reply. Finally he gasped:

"Is he really all mine, papa?"

"All yours, sonny. I intended to give him to you at breakfast, but his bark stood in the way. Come; we three will go up and finish your dressing. I suppose I'll have to help you now that your attention is diverted from your clothes. Come on, Zip."

"Is that his name?"

"That's a good one for him, don't you think so? He looks as if his name might be Zip."

And Zip the terrier continued to be called. There is as much affinity between children and dogs as there is enmity between dogs and cats. From the moment Jimmy saw Zip he loved him, and from the moment Zip saw Jimmy he adored him. Jimmy began to go to kindergarten that year, and from the time he departed Zip did nothing but wait for his return. Indeed, he would have gone with his little master had the door not been shut on him when Jimmy went out. But as soon as Jimmy came home Zip resembled a rubber ball on the bound. He jumped all over the boy, his expression plainly denoting his joy. Then what times Zip and Jim would have together! They would romp till Jim was too tired to romp any longer. Then Jim would get out his toys, and Zip would sit by watching him, turning his little head at Jim's every motion.

Jimmy's parents objected to the two friends passing the night as well as the day together, and this was a great hardship for both the dog and the boy. Many a time, notwithstanding great precaution, the family would awaken in the morning to find Zip and Jim in bed together. Jimmy's mother threatened to send his pet away if he did it again.

One morning Zip waited as he was always directed to wait for his chum to come down to breakfast. Jimmy did not come. Zip noticed that the father and mother looked anxious, and the dog was himself correspondingly worried. He ran this way and that way, butting his nose against a door that confined him, and when a maid opened it without thinking Zip sprang through and ran upstairs into Jim's room. There lay Jim in bed looking red and hot. His mother was bending over him anxiously. Zip sprang up on to the bed. The mother ordered him off, but one look from Jim changed her intention, and she permitted Zip to remain.

But Zip had to go when the doctor came and was kept out of the room for the rest of the day. In the morning Jim was a little better, and his Christmas dog was let into his room and up on to his bed, where he licked the boy's hand, looking at him with melancholy eyes, as though his heart would break. But he was not permitted to remain long. Jimmy was too ill. Indeed, there were times when he probably did not know that his pet was with him. Zip was put outside, but remained at the door, looking up wistfully as people went in and out, as if for a bit of comfort as to his friend's condition.

Jimmy grew worse, and it seemed that he would pass away shortly before the dying year. The day before Christmas after the doctor's morning call Zip saw Jimmy's mother in tears. She had been told that the crisis would take place during the next twenty-four hours. Zip could not be driven from the door all day. In the evening he saw by the expression on the faces of those nursing Jimmy that something important was taking place.

It was 7 o'clock. The dinner table was set below in the dining room. On the sideboard was a dish of fruit, including some Malaga grapes. But no one seemed inclined to eat, and the room was deserted. The door of Jimmy's bedroom opened, and a trained nurse came out. A few minutes later Zip hopped up on the sick boy's bed with a bunch of grapes in his mouth. Jimmy's mother was about to take Zip in her arms and set him outside when her boy opened his eyes. Seeing Zip and the grapes, he put out his hand, trying to break off a grape, but was too feeble.

There Jimmy's mother plucked a grape and held it to her boy's lips. He swallowed it and with his eyes asked for more. Grape after grape was eaten by the patient till the last one on the bunch was gone. Then the boy slept, with Zip in his arms.

At 10 o'clock the nurse took Jimmy's temperature and discovered that it was nearly normal. At 11 the doctor came and was astonished at the change in the boy's condition. In the morning Jimmy ate a good breakfast and, hearing the word Christmas spoken, asked for his presents.

That was a happy day for all, especially Zip, who had turned the scale.

other hand. It is true that the mother cat carries young kittens by grasping in her mouth the loose skin at the back of her offspring's neck, but a tiny kitten is a very different matter from a large cat, and, indeed, the only way to lift a kitten without squeezing or hurting its soft little body is to lift it by its neck. But after it has grown larger its own weight is too great to be supported by such a bit of skin and for as is so grasped by the hand, and many a cat suffers perfect tortures by being held in this manner and is quite helpless to run or struggle, as in such a position certain of its muscles cannot be controlled, and it is absolutely at the mercy of its unconscious tormentor.

The same rule should be observed in lifting rabbits by their ears. They should always be partially supported by the free hand and not allowed to dangle with their whole weight straining from their large but necessarily delicate ears.--Watchword.

More Than One Way.

The caller, a man whom he had known in the old town back in Pennsylvania, had dropped in to talk old times with the busy lawyer, and the lawyer had endured it patiently for an hour and a half. Then, unseen by the caller, he pushed a small knob at the end of his desk, and a bell rang in the adjoining room.

"Excuse me a moment, Mr. Hockensplutter," he said, stepping into the other room and proceeding to hold this one sided conversation over an imaginary telephone:

"Hello!"

"Yes."

"No, Bertha, I'll not have time to come home for dinner. It's already 1:30, and I have several hours' work yet to do. I am very busy and have been detained."

"Yes. Goodbye!"

Then he went back to his desk. But Mr. Hockensplutter had already risen to go.--Chicago Tribune.

That Genius Whistler.

Of Whistler Lady St. Helier in "Memories of Fifty Years" writes thus: "He was a genius and had all the defects and qualities of one. To him everything was a joke, the subject of a bonmot. The lightest and daintiest of persiflage was what he excelled in, and one never had a dull moment in his company. He was always late for dinner, arranging the immortal lock of gray hair in its proper place as he came into the room, with apologies and excuses, none of them true--of which he was perfectly conscious and also of the fact that his host and hostess knew that they were not. Wherever he was there would be a circle listening to him, and his ringing laugh would be heard all over the room as he sent his shafts right and left into the joints of the armor of those who were attacking him. It was a great surprise and almost a shock when he appeared as a benedict."

How Eskimos Measure Time.

Writing of the Eskimo methods of measuring time in a region of six months day or night, Harry Whitney in Outing says:

"The Eskimo divides his periods into 'sleeps,' but a sleep does not designate by any means the civilized measure of day and night. It is, in fact, a very uncertain term. Often we traveled from twenty to thirty hours without rest. Now there was no night, and I so far lost count of time that I was not at all certain of dates. Our single marches with the succeeding 'sleep' not infrequently covered a full forty-eight hours, or two ordinary days. The object of these extended marches was to take advantage of good weather and general conditions or because no safe or convenient camping place presented itself in the interim."

Two of a Kind.

There is something about the character of mules that makes their owners at times almost equally stubborn. In the Washington Star this dialogue concerning one if not two such animals is reported:

"Why don't you get rid of that mule?"

"Well, sub," answered Erastus Pinkley, "I hates to give in. If I was to trade that mule off he'd regard it as a personal victory. He's been tryin' foh de las' six weeks to get rid o' me."

An Injustice.

When George III, first met Sir John Irwin, a thirsty soul, he remarked facetiously, "They tell me, Sir John, you're fond of a glass of wine."

"Your majesty," gravely responded the courtier, "your informants do me a great injustice. They should have said a bottle."--St. Louis Republic.

He Remembered.

Wife (revisiting the scene of her betrothal)--I remember, Algernon, so well when you proposed to me how painfully embarrassed you were. Algernon--Yes, dear, and I remember so well how kind and encouraging you were and how easy you made it for me, after all.--London Tit-Bits.

Experience.

"Experience would be a wonderful asset but for one thing."

"What's that?"

"You can never sell it for what it cost you."

Several members of the Carnival Company imbibed too freely yesterday afternoon and were arrested by Marshal Myers for disorderly conduct. They gave bonds for appearance in the Mayor's Court this morning, but forfeited their bonds by failure to show up and the city is that much ahead.

Mrs. I. N. Terry and Miss Grace Sherrill, of Utica, N. Y., are guests of The Islington for a time. The ladies are cousins of Rev. Dana Sherrill, of Hoopeston, Ill., who owns a winter home on Volusia avenue. They have been making a tour of the continent and expect to go south from here, probably as far as Cuba.

W. W. Ross, wife and daughter, Miss Mamie, arrived last night from Gainesville last night for a few days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Armstrong, corner of Ridgewood and Magnolia avenue. Mrs. Williamson and Mrs. Armstrong were college friends at North Hampton, Mass. Mr. Williamson is engaged in developing a 75,000 acre tract of land at Gainesville.

Effects of Drugs.
Persons employed in India rubber factories sometimes inhale bisulphide of carbon and suffer from frightful dreams of being murdered or of falling over precipices. Opium stimulates imagination; alcohol in excess excites dread and suspicion; hashish, from which the word assassin was derived, produces homicidal mania. These drugs have a distinct effect upon the moral sense. Sometimes, as from alcohol, a coarse and stupid brutality is stimulated, or, as from morphia, a gloomy and morose temper, or, as from cocaine, while the manner remains gentle, the victim develops thieving and lying habits.

Honor in Wall Street.

One would hardly consider the New York Stock Exchange exactly in the light of "a communion of saints." Indeed, to judge by much that appears in the daily papers and the muck raking magazines, this might be the last place to look for the very soul and spirit of integrity. But there it is "in the midst of them." Between members of that marble mansion of trade in securities on New York's famous Broad street no paper writing passes certifying to the binding obligation of a transaction. In the very fiercest rush and maddest vortex of the wild corner a word, a nod, the merest sign, amply suffices. Whatever it may lead to--irreparable loss, ruin, bankruptcy, no matter--the deal is closed. I am not professing to be an apologist for whatever crimes may be committed in the name of honor. I simply record the fact, to be easily verified, that the dealings on that exchange are "on honor." The Corinthian fairness of its pillared and entablatured front is not shamed by the constant and consistent uprightness of the traffic within.--Christian Register.

A Tragedy in Writing.

Illegible handwriting, which has given rise to so many comedies, led to a tragedy in the case of Bacher, a musical enthusiast of the last century who devoted several years to the composition of a history of Viennese music. His task finished, he submitted the manuscript to the Austrian Imperial academy, which he had been led to believe would defray the cost of its publication. After three months his manuscript was returned. Despite their best efforts the members had been unable to decipher it. Bacher then endeavored to have his work copied, but every professional copyist who undertook the task had to confess himself baffled. He thereupon attempted dictating the work, only to find that even he could not decipher it, and, heartbroken at the discovery that his years of toil had proved fruitless, he attempted suicide and finished his days in a lunatic asylum.

Her Cab.

Mary Ann of Lancaster Gate, basement, was having a week off and had arrived back at her little native village in all her metropolitan paint and feathers.

It was a very little native village, and Mary Ann, after her many months' service in town, didn't think so very much of it. Even James, the station porter and her old sweetheart, seemed hopelessly insignificant, and instead of staggering him with the kiss that he expected she looked him up and down, comparing him with a certain gentleman whose acquaintance she had recently made and who wore plush breeches and silk stockings.

"Porter," she said grandly, "do you know if there is a cab here to convey me and my luggage home?"

"Well, I don't know about a cab," responded the staggered yokel, "but there's yer mother outside wi' a barer!"--London Scraps.

Insulted.

"Have you lived in this town very long, Miss Sear?"

"Of course not! Do I look old enough to have lived anywhere very long?"

His Obligations.

"I owe Pjenks a call."

"Going there this evening?"

"No. You see--that isn't all I owe him."--Cleveland Leader.
